Course Description

This course invites and challenges the adolescent to personalize the principles that guide Catholics in understanding their role in shaping culture through our discipleship. Students will explore the history of our faith, from the time of Christ to the modern era, and will do so by examining the works of art that helped propel and popularize Christianity. Through our investigations, foundational topics such as: what it means to be human, what is culture, Christ and culture, living together in solidarity, social justice, prayer and sacrament, friendship and intimacy will be discussed,

Ideas Underlying the Religious Education Curriculum

Student Evaluation Criteria

Assessment and Evaluation: Assessment is an ongoing process that reflects how well a student is achieving the expectations. Based on the School Effectiveness Framework, assessment as and for learning involves goal setting for students and allows the teacher to gather evidence to determine where students are in their learning. Strategies may include, but are not limited to: oral discussions, cooperative learning activities, homework checks, and individual consultations. These strategies are in place to help students clearly understand learning goals and success criteria. Assessment of student learning involves assigning a value to judge the quality of student learning, for communication to parents and students. This may take place in the form of, but is not limited to: rich performance tasks, demonstrations, projects, essays, reports, tests and presentations.

Late Policy: Students are expected to hand in assignments on the due date. If a deadline cannot be met, the student must arrange another date with the teacher prior to the due date. Late marks may be deducted in accordance with the guidelines in the Growing Success document, and explained in the student agenda. Failure to submit indicates that curriculum expectations are not being met; a zero may be recorded.

Homework: Homework will be assigned on a regular basis and is expected to be completed. Homework assists students in learning the material and to assess their own learning. If a student is absent for any reason, it is the student's responsibility to make up for missed work. If absent, the buddy system may be used to obtain copies of handouts and get information about what was missed. If the student knows of the absence ahead of time, the teacher should be consulted about work missed.

Determining a report card grade involves the interpretation of evidence collected through observations, conversations, and student products combined with the teacher's professional judgment and consideration of factors such as the number of tests/exams or assignments for evaluation that were not completed or submitted and the fact that some evidence may carry greater weight than other evidence
